

A rolling element for a continuously variable transmission, including a plurality of rolling members having rolling contact portions that come into rolling

10